

THIS WHIRLING WORLD

By Don Lall

In anti-Nazi quarters, it was cabled, that after Adolf a German cardinal is being considered as head of the "Fourth Reich." It has been hoped that the idea will bring Germany into more democratic conditions. After Adolf, we believe, however, that the condition of the country won't be worth mentioning, after the Poles, Czechs, Danes, and the others get through. It is believed that the Allies won't approve of a military government or a monarchy but democratic principles must be installed. The plan has gained further support by the information that not more than 50 percent of the German population is Roman Catholic while previous to the war only about one-third was. It is a sincere hope that Adolf will live to see the change in the "Reich" direction.

A Retreating Advance

A German broadcast has announced that half a million Russians have gotten through German lines some way. It wasn't made clear to the German home front how, during the march to victory, that half a million Russians were coming the other way. They probably said they enveloped them and in this situation that's hard to do. Fifty more villages were "temporarily" taken from them while they were reforming their advance. Ah, it is a shame about Adolf 'cause he's running so fast after trying so hard?

Rome Resigns

Marshal Badoglio has said that when Rome surrenders he will give up his job as premier of Italy and from the way the American Fifth and the British Eighth are advancing he is going to be temporarily out of a job real soon. He has pledged his loyalty to King Victor and when he goes, so goes "Baggie." The British Eighth captured Aversa in a three-mile push on the eastern end of the battle line. General Clark's Fifth army stopped several counter attacks northwest of Montecassino. Nine German planes were lost in air battles over the lines and nine German pilots went goose-stepping down to Nazi heaven. The Germans have been deeply worried over a possible invasion around Jutland, Denmark. They didn't win in Jutland in the last war and we don't see how they can win in this one.

Lebanon Labors On

As a gesture of sympathy toward the Lebanese whose government has been imprisoned by the French, Egyptian youths rioted in Cairo and broke the windows of the French Consulate, which will be replaced by the French after the war by tend-lease. The Egyptian premier has said that he will try to liberate all Allied prisoners in Lebanon.

Wildcats To Battle Fort Knox In Season Opener On Dec. 1

Prospects Look Only Fair, Says Head Coach Rupp

By Bill Spragens

The University basketball season will open on Wednesday night, December 1, when the Wildcats tangle with the Fort Knox team in Alumni gymnasium. Fort Knox is one of several service teams with which games have been booked for this year.

As the opening of the season approaches, Head Coach Adolph Rupp is getting his men pretty well whipped into shape. Rupp himself is only fairly enthusiastic over the season's prospects. This year's team, according to the veteran coach, is an "off again, on again" outfit. "At times," Rupp says, "I think they look like the worst ball team I've ever seen. Then again they look like they might play some pretty fair ball. About every other practice they look good, and about every other practice they look terrible."

Few Injuries

As a whole there have been no serious injuries among members of the squad, although two of the men have suffered broken fingers, and Branum, the tall center from Kansas, who has been on the sick list, has just returned to the lineup. Those who have been carrying most of the first string work in practice so far are Buls, Schu, and Yessin at forwards; Vulich at center, and Johnson and Moseley at guards. These men will not definitely be in the starting lineup when the season begins, but they have been doing most of the first team work.

The following is an unofficial schedule of the games set for this quarter. It is subject to change, as the official schedule has not yet been released.

Unofficial Schedule

December 1—Fort Knox, here
December 4—Berea, here
December 6—Bowman Field, here
December 11—Indiana, at Louisville
December 13—Ohio State, at Columbus
December 18—Cincinnati, here
December 20—Illinois, at Champaign

A definite announcement has not yet been made in regard to issuing tickets to the students, but one is expected soon.

Colleges Have More Worries Says Donovan

President Speaks Of Opportunities At Convocation

Dr. Herman L. Donovan, president of the University, declared in his address at convocation Tuesday that the war has offered American universities their greatest opportunity to attack their problems.

He said the war may be a blessing in disguise to educational institutions if it will teach us to re-think some of the fundamental issues of higher education and if it will cause us to realize that some of our traditional ways of doing things have become outmoded.

He predicted that our people will have greater faith in the fundamental values of higher education in the years ahead than they have ever had before. All of our universities are on the threshold of a new era.

In picturing the University's responsibility, he emphasized the need for adult education as well as for that of youth, and urged all colleges of the University to plan an adult education program for the postwar era.

Dr. Donovan emphasized a belief in the necessity of compulsory military training on a universal basis. In closing he stated, "If universal peace ever comes, as I believe it will, it will be as the result of positive, affirmative, aggressive action on the part of civilized nations capable of policing belligerent peoples whose conduct is detrimental to the interest of mankind."

"In the kind of world in which we live we may as well recognize that the best insurance against war, in the future, will be universal military training."

Exam Schedule Announced; Tests Will Begin On Dec. 13

The examination schedule and rules for the close of the present quarter for all colleges except law has been released by the office of the registrar.

Soldier Classes To Be Dismissed

Classes will be dismissed for all members of ASTP, ASTRP, and ASTP-ROTC Thanksgiving day, the military department has announced.

Reyes Slated To Give Second Of Musicales

Angel Reyes, Cuban violinist, will present the second concert in the 1943-44 series of Sunday afternoon musicales, at 4 p.m., November 28, in Memorial hall.

Reyes, son of Reyes Camejo, Cuban composer, began his study of the violin as he began learning his letters. He studied with Juan Torroella until, at 12, he won the Medal of the National Conservatory of Havana, and, facing even stiffer competition, the first prize offered by the Philharmonic orchestra — competing for this with mature professional violinists.

Reyes' father took him immediately to Paris, where Firmin Touche, teacher of advanced violin at the Paris conservatory, took an instant liking to the boy, saying "you have all the essentials for violin art."

He studied for three years at the Paris conservatory, graduating with first prize in violin and first medal in solfège and theory.

The program for Reyes' debut recital, at the Salle de l'Ecole, was prepared with Touche and Darius, conductor of the Colonne orchestra. The occasion was a sensational success, with glowing press reviews.

This marked the beginning of a steady artistic progress. After an extended tour through France and Belgium, Reyes returned to Havana, where his fellow citizens, led by the wife of the president of Cuba, presented him with a Guarnerius violin in recognition of his achievements. Reyes appeared in Cuba under the auspices of Pro Arte Musical and also with the Havana philharmonic.

He returned to France the following season, where he opened a long series of engagements with a recital in Brussels attended by the Belgian royal family.

Reyes made his debut in the United States in Carnegie hall and took his place in the first ranks of instrumentalists. After appearances in Toronto and Washington he returned to Havana before accepting a long tour here. At this time the Cuban government honored him with an appointment to the post of cultural attache to the Cuban embassy in Washington, D. C.

Registrar Warns Of Cut Penalties

Any student absent from class on the day immediately preceding or following a holiday shall have a penalty of one quarter hour, and one quality point added to his requirements, for graduation unless excused by the committee on Scholarship and Attendance, according to an announcement from the office of the registrar.

This penalty is added for each day missed. It was pointed out, so that if a student is absent for two successive days after the holiday or on both the day before and the day after the holiday, two credits will be added.

Shelby To Head Poultry Club

Charles E. Shelby, agriculture sophomore from Salem, has been elected president of the Poultry club.

Other officers chosen are Silvan Hopkins, Dawson Springs, vice-president, and Roy Ballard, Lexington, secretary-treasurer.

The local group has decided to remain active during the present school year although the National Inter-collegiate Poultry club has been disbanded for the duration.

Sweater Swing Set For Today

A sweater swing will be held from 5 to 7:30 o'clock this evening in the Bluegrass room of the Union building. "Your sweater or your uniform is your admission," Mrs. John B. Evans said.

The theme of the dance will be based on Shakerstown, with separate doors for men and women, so that all are urged to come, with or without a date, she explained.

10 Legislators To Be Selected By UK Voters

To choose ten Student Government Assembly members under the new quarterly representative plan outlined in a by-law passed last week, the students of the University will go to the polls on Friday, November 26.

The election, slated for the day following the Thanksgiving holiday, will be conducted at polling places in McVey hall and room 127 of the Union building from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Seats Vacated

Voters will fill the following positions, some of which have been vacated by resignation and others by withdrawal:

Arts and sciences, one lowerclass man, two lowerclass women, and two upperclass women; agriculture, one man at large, and one upperclass woman; commerce, one man at large; education, one upperclass woman; engineering, one upperclass man.

At an independent party rally Tuesday night, the party's candidates for the three opposed vacancies were announced as Marjorie Palmore, junior from Horse Cave, arts and sciences upperclass woman; Richard Hunt, Lexington sophomore, arts and sciences upperclass man; and Alice Benton, junior from Irvine, education upperclass woman.

At press time the Constitutionalist party had not announced its candidates for these vacancies left by the withdrawal of Frances Jenkins, Buddy White, and Marjorie Palmore, respectively.

No Opposition

In the seven remaining vacancies, candidates apparently have no opposition, since only one person has filed application for each position. Those who have filed are the legislators who resigned before the election, thus leaving their offices vacant and permitting the new system to go into effect. The names of these candidates will not appear on the ballots. Ray H. Garrison, SGA representative and election committee chairman, announced yesterday. Other persons interested in filing applications must do so by 3 p.m. today, as prescribed in the by-law which outlined the organization of the quarterly election.

Unopposed candidates are Alice Watkins, senior from London, arts and sciences upperclass woman, Constitutionalist; Bill Embury, sophomore from Lexington, commerce man at large, Constitutionalist; Betty Anne Glinochio, sophomore from Lexington, arts and sciences lowerclass woman, Constitutionalist; Betty Lee Fleishman, sophomore from Lexington, arts and sciences lowerclass woman, Independent; Charles Shelby, sophomore from Salem, agriculture man at large, Independent; Norman Christian, junior from Pikeville, engineering upperclass man, Independent; and Helen Bradford, junior from Demosseeville, agriculture upperclass woman, Independent.

Campaign managers from both parties urged students in education and arts and sciences to make definite efforts to vote, since these are the only colleges in which there is opposition for places.

Ballots will be counted in the Union building immediately after 4

Coed Corner...

By Mary Jane Gallaher

Saturday night at the Cottage was like one big happy reunion—more of the fellows home on leave. Everybody giving everyone else the glad hand—seemed almost like old times—Ah, nostalgia! Also signs of the times as he hit earth with a bump! We noticed lots and lots of newly-weds among our friendly circle. Let that be a lesson to you women—it can and does happen on UK's campus.

Jewelry Today

Thought we'd string along on the subject of jewelry this fine day—junk jewelry especially. We are tired of seeing good suits and smooth dresses overslung with too much clanking metal. We are about to give vent to our emotions. The line and idea always was, ladies, simplicity minus. And I do mean minus those arm loads of bracelets and those pet fireplug lapel pins. Collections of bracelets were once the fad we admit, but no matter what the fad, one goodlooking piece always has had a whole counter of them beat. If you take one slick outfit and put with it one chic silver or gold pin, bracelet, or necklace, it adds to the occasion. Femmes, take a lesson from the chorus girls—it's what you take off that matters! The less jewelry the better. Put more money into one good necklace which can be used with several costumes, rather than buying numerous articles that are faddish and will look cheap a month or two later.

Be Classic

Unusualness, still keeping it simple, is an idea not to be overlooked. Try first to be classic and in good taste with your purchases, but after that look for pieces that will be distinctive. Antique shops are fun for this if you have good ideas, and the combining of unusual colors in dress and accessories is splendid if you keep it within reason.

Experiment with the necklaces and earrings you have on hand, and see if you can't dream up some new sparkle into that old glad rag.

If in doubt about what goes with who, always stick to pearls. They are classic and will do for any occasion. They accent your school clothes and can be just as effective for evening wear. They are one jewelry idea on which you very seldom miss a cue.

Now for a last and final positive point we shall stick our neck out. Gals, you do not wear earrings with socks! This is going to hit some of you a little hard in the solar plexus (it's not where you think, Susie) but so help me it's the truth. Earrings with socks are very bad taste on account of you are combining sports clothes with dress accessories, and they are as far apart as the poles. The bangles on your shell pink lobes are lovely for dates and would be fine for school if we just didn't have to look at those anklets. Try to get the distinction between what does for dress-up occasions and what's for the campus, and you'll find half the battle won.

Phi Delt House Will Entertain

Walking Frankfurter Brings Story Of Pathos To Coeds

By Myrtle Weathers

All of you have noticed the filthy little dog that has been hanging around the campus. Not much larger than a good sized frankfurter, this fugitive from a bun and mustard is claimed by neither "wire haired" nor "mongrel," so it just shivers and shivers, but still hangs around.

The sad plight of this four legged "what's it" made absolutely no difference to the average "Hard-hearted Hannah" co-ed, for when two of these despicable specimens spied said hound, a villainish plan took shape in their cruel minds.

In voices coated with the sweet stuff bees will sting to protect, they took time off from polishing each other's horns and discussing which furnace they were to occupy in "yon" place," to lure Bruno into the Union.

The prospect of people scorned, rebuking, and making fun of the miserable mutt, made them drool in fendish delight.

Then, as we are never proud of the "lower case" activities we perpetrate, the gals did a disappearing act that would make Houdini blush.

The little creature looked bewildered, then spied, over in a lonely corner, a solitary soldier. It ambled over and with a "May 12" look, curled up at his feet.

Boy and dog understood each other's feelings of loneliness in a glance of mutual delight, for soon the boy took out his pipe and patted the animal with a "you remind me of Spot" affection to make the honey picture complete.

Around the corner the low, disgusting, coeds got down on their stomachs and wriggled off to the grill, each trying to keep the other from seeing the tears in her eyes.

Lovens-Fanelli

Miss Mabel Frances Lovens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Lovens, Lexington, became the bride of Major Richard Vincent Fanelli, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Fanelli, Anchorage, at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the Second Presbyterian church with Dr. Jesse Herrmann officiating.

The bride is a graduate of the University where she was a member of Theta Sigma Phi, honorary journalism sorority.

Major Fanelli is a graduate of the University where he was a member of Phi Kappa Tau fraternity. He is a pilot in the United States Army Air Corps troop carrier command.

UK 4-H Club Will Sponsor Thanksgiving Party

The University 4-H club is sponsoring a Thanksgiving party for the faculty and students of the agriculture college Saturday evening November 27, in the Stock Judging pavilion. This party will compensate for, though not replace, the usual Fall festival.

For the first time since 1919, the agriculture college will not be able to hold its Fall festival. This annual affair began as a livestock show sponsored by Black and White, and later grew into the festival through the co-operative effort of all the agriculture clubs on the campus. However, this year the war has so depleted the ranks of Black and White that the custom of the festival will be temporarily interrupted.

Can You Believe It Now? They Rush To This Class

By Casey Goman

One class on the campus to which students rush, and from which they have to be pushed when the hour ends is—Orientation 82.

The prof responsible for this phenomenon? Dr. Alexander Capurso, executive director of the music department.

Dr. Capurso captures and holds the interest of his students by various methods. Take a typical Tuesday for example.

Roll is taken and class is well under way by the time the bell rings. On this particular day, the agenda calls for an oboe solo, played by the one and only oboist at UK, Jane I. Campbell, who is a member of the class. She is accompanied by Ann McBrayer, another student.

Dr. Capurso, with several well-aimed references, introduces the guest speaker for the day, Frank Fowler director of Guilford. Not an eyelid droops during his discussion of the theatre—or during his reply to Capurso's introduction, either! He packages his information so cleverly in fun that the students never suspect how much they are absorbing.

After Mr. Fowler expounds his theories, the class is turned loose with questions, each student asking about the particular phase of the theatre in which he is interested.

The class has heard Blaine W. Schiek speak on romance languages, Miss Helen King on Journalism, and Elmer G. Sulzer on radio. Scheduled for the remainder of the quarter are talks on other phases of campus life.

Dr. Capurso is teaching his students orientation in the true sense of the word—not acquainting them with just their own particular corner of the campus, but giving them a glimpse into all fields. He does this, not through books and abstract debate, but by actual first-hand discussion with a person qualified to speak authoritatively on each subject.

During the first class meeting Dr. Capurso discovered in what fields each student is proficient, talented, or interested. He brings each of these into the classwork, giving the student a clearer conception of each.

He believes in bringing out the "hidden talents" of his students—so they perform for each other: solos, speech work, or perhaps next time, a quartet.

To the members of this class Dr. Capurso is tops, a friend as well as an advisor. He is called upon to straighten out emotional tangles as well as settle schedule difficulties, and he enjoys talking to his students at any and all times.

There was a decrease in arrests of persons under 21 from 56,462 in the first half of 1942 to 52,517 in 1943.

UK Instructor Is Reported Ill

Technical Sergeant Elmer O. Kinker, instructor in basic ROTC, who is critically ill with cerebrospinal meningitis, is reported as slightly improved, according to the military department.

In an effort to save Sergeant Kinker's life, Col. B. E. Brewer procured penicillin, latest discovery for combatting meningitis, from the Lawson General Hospital, Atlanta, Ga.

Sergeant Kinker has been an instructor in ROTC at the University since 1930. Enlisting in the Army in 1916, he saw service in six major engagements in World War I. At the conclusion of the war, Sergeant Kinker remained in Germany with the occupational army, serving in the courier service.

He was admitted to St. Joseph's hospital November 9.

Capurso To Talk On Tschalkowsky

Dr. Alexander Capurso, executive head of the music department, will speak on The Music and Romances of Tschalkowsky, at 6 p. m. today in the Music room of the Union building.

He will illustrate this talk on Tschalkowsky's romance with the woman he never met and its effect on his music with recordings.

Civilian and soldier students on the campus are asked to attend this lecture sponsored by the Fine Arts group.

Long Is Named To Head ZTA

Sadie Hawkins Week Over, Gals Still Wolfing Around

By Wanda Lee Spears

Yes, Sadie Hawkins week is over, but still some of us gals are willing to wolf around. Now, the old question arises—where to meet the boys?

But first, who to meet? ROTC and ASTP and ASTRP. Yes, yes, yes!

This could go on forever, but for a little down to earth advice. All of the places presented are well tried and tested. Having interviewed those cute coeds who seem to be just too, too successful and a few soldiers and men-about-the-campus who hope a few more girls will be equally successful, we come to the following conclusions:

Try The Grill
The grill is swell. Method—sit around, stand around, walk around

Needin' Some Bridge Lessons?

"An ace counts one, king-jack-the same, and king-queen-jack in the same suit equals two." These words, accompanied by such sage advice as, "Never trump your partner's ace," marked the first in a series of bridge lessons sponsored by the Union activities committee. The sessions last from 6:15 to 7:15 p. m. on Mondays and are held in the Card room of the Union building.

Coached in the fundamentals of the game by Pat Wallace, co-winner of last year's bridge tournament, over fifty civilian students and soldiers practice honor-counting, bidding, and playing.

Marie Cottingham, Henderson, is chairman of the sub-committee in charge of the bridge lessons. Other members are Betty Jane Foll, Isabel Michelson, Billie Jeanne Clift, Bernice Lewis, Emily Plock, and Evelyn Kaufman.

Persons interested in either learning the game or in improving their playing are invited to attend. Miss Cottingham stated.

BSU To Hold Party Tomorrow

A Baptist Student union party will be held at 7:30 p. m. Saturday at Calvary Baptist church, High and Rhodes streets.

The advertising scheme will be carried out throughout the party, according to Evelyn Greene, social director.

Catherine Riggsby, president, urges that all Baptist students and soldiers attend as it is primarily a "get-acquainted" party.

Business Staff

Members of the Kernel business staff will meet at 3 p. m. today in the Kernel Business office, according to Betty Bohannon, business manager.

Lost Any Ribs Or Fingers? Warren's Mortuary Has 'Em

By Adele Denman

Yipe! Where is my hand? Say, whose head is this? Yours? Then, where's mine? Have you seen my third toe on the left foot lately? Hey, gals, catch Dugan—she's got my last rib!

Ah yes, this is the new lingo that reaches the ear of the brave soul who visits the second hour gym class. The University, in addition to requiring an I.Q. of 200, would like for you to be able to walk with both legs over your head, sit down and balance for four days on the hang-nail of your little finger, or lift yourself over three hurdles by your hair.

The delightful little exercises that all University freshmen and gym majors have been required to do, commonly referred to in polite language as the grapevine, top, Russian dance, full right turn, etc., are "easy, simple, elementary," say the instructors, who can swim the Atlantic ocean, lift the Union with one hand, and by means of the flintier kick, fly around the gym three times, respectively.

The department of archaeology hovers like a mighty vulture over the gym, looking for specimens. If some kind soul would, it would be nice to tell them that the so-called priceless dinosaur bone they found over there was only Shirley Meisler's old, forgotten elbow, left from last year.

Confidentially, all people who try these exercises, don't pull through, and the bodies are sent by means of the water cooler to the Maintenance department, which relays them to the cemetery behind Guilford, where all of the unfortunates are crying for a fourth for bridge.

Also these strenuous exercises sometimes affect the mind. If you want to know who got the worst end of the deal, just call the Lydia

Brown house and get the name of the person who answered the phone with, "Fourth Street Asylum. Cleopatra speaking," or, "Joe's pool-room. Eight ball speaking!"

Tryouts for the Alpha Rho Mortis, Women's gym honorary, will be conducted at 12 o'clock on Wednesday night at the cross-roads. All interested, please see Miss Warren immediately.

Yes, it's a great life, and remind me never to ask why upperclassmen look so dissipated after the first year—they weren't evil, they just took gym!

More than 25,000 names are now on the "war criminal" books in London, which list identities of quislings and occupation offenders.

Latin American Collection Now On Exhibit In Library

By Patricia Pollack

Venezuelan newspapers, official publications, letters, maps, and material from the scrap book compiled by Dr. and Mrs. Frank L. McVey on their recent trip to Venezuela form the basis of the Latin American display on exhibit now in the library.

Attractive colored posters portraying the five different sections of Latin America, its peoples, and industries have been lent to the University by the Library Service division of the United States Office of Education, who, in cooperation with the Office of Coordination of Inter-American affairs, assembled this Latin American series for school use throughout the country.

Bulletins Shown

Among the cases of material are various bulletins of the Venezuelan university, and facsimile reproductions of Gaceta de Caracas. Editions of the Correo del Orinoco are also included in the collection. These works, which were presented to Dr. McVey by the Venezuelan Academia Nacional de la Historia, are now the property of the University through the former president's donation.

127 Soldiers Accept Offers

One hundred and twenty-seven ASTP-ASTRP men of different religious denominations have accepted offers for a Thanksgiving Day dinner, which is being planned by the churches of Lexington under the sponsorship of the Union War Efforts committee.

The names taken from the replies, have been divided into three different groups: Jewish, Protestant, and Catholic. These lists were turned over to the various churches, where hostesses will be contacted accordingly. After completion of arrangements, the soldiers will be notified about further details.

The War Efforts committee is also in charge of the composition of a Christmas letter to former University students who attended school between 1938 and the present date and who are now in the service at home and abroad. All members of the committee were assigned on a two initials of the alphabetical list from which they were to copy the names and addresses of these servicemen. Very shortly, all University men and women will be assigned four or five names to whom they will be asked to mail these letters.

Applied Music Classes Present Recital Monday

Vocal students appearing on the program will be Laura Jean Blake, Ann Scott Maher, Betty Harris Russell, Joan Neil, and Margaret Gooch. Piano students presenting selections will be Leota Meade, Beth Caddy, Mildred Williams, and Alice Dean.

All students taking applied music courses are required to attend, unless they have another regularly scheduled University class at this time, and the public is invited.

Skating Party

An all campus skating party, sponsored by the Outing club, will be held from 5 to 7 p.m. Saturday at Scott's rollarena.

Following the taking of the picture for the Kentuckian at 4:15 p.m. in front of the Union building, the party will proceed to the rollarena.

All students and soldiers on the campus are invited. Professor and Mrs. E. A. Bureau will chaperon the party.

New Psychology Course Has Been Added To Curriculum

An entirely new professional field will be opened to University students beginning with the winter quarter, when a training program in industrial psychology will be added to the curriculum.

Heretofore, industrial psychologists and personnel men have learned their jobs through experience, Dr. Henry Beaumont, creator of the course, pointed out. This training program, he stated, will be the only one of its type in the country, with the exception of a graduate course offered by Radcliffe college, an eastern girls' school.

Demand Great

The war has created an unprecedented demand for men and women trained in industrial psychology, Dr. Beaumont explained. This demand, he said, may be intensified greatly when the country faces the problem of rehabilitating millions of people to civilian pursuits. Workers must be chosen and placed in jobs in accordance with their abilities, experience and interests; adequate training for skilled occupations must be provided; unnecessary strain and fatigue must be eliminated, and morale must be built up and maintained.

With these and similar needs in mind, Dr. Beaumont pointed out, government agencies, commercial firms and industrial plants are employing in increasing numbers college graduates who have acquired the background, skills and experience required to assist in the establishment and maintenance of satisfactory personnel relations.

Employers Eager

So eager are firms and government agencies to employ trained psychologists, Dr. Beaumont stated, that they are hiring college students from the classroom—not giving them time to finish their degrees. An associate professor of psychology at the University, Dr. Beaumont conceived the idea of offering a course in industrial psychology during the last quarter.

The course, he said, had an enrollment far beyond his expectations. This led to the development of the training program to be inaugurated next quarter.

In the training program as outlined by Dr. Beaumont, related courses in different departments of the University provide the background; essential skills and techniques are developed in the laboratories and try-out experiences, while co-operating firms and public agencies offer opportunities for practical experience by providing part-time temporary employment.

Electives Offered

In addition to the courses which are required of all students enrolled in the program, electives may be chosen in accordance with each person's interests and needs. Academic credit for work experience is given on the basis of a detailed report submitted by the student and the quality of job performance.

Supervised industrial work experience will be gained by the students through part-time employment provided by co-operating firms. Since there are few factories in the Lexington area which a class may visit to learn techniques of job analysis and reports, motion pictures will be used extensively in the program.

Firms Will Aid

Firms which have agreed to aid in the program to date include Archer and Smith, Ltd., First National Bank and Trust company, Kentucky Utilities company, S. S. Kresge company, Lexington Telephone company, Office of Price Administration, United States Employment service, University of Kentucky Personnel office, Walgreen drugs and the Wolf-Wile company.

Benefit Game Set Thursday

The Ashland Tomcats and Highlands High school of Port Thomas will play a benefit football game at 2 p.m. Thanksgiving day on Stoll field.

Adolph Rupp, who is in charge of arrangements for the game, announced this week that the admission for all University students will be 50 cents. Receipts from the game, which is sponsored by Olcika Temple, will go to the brace fund of the Shriners' Crippled Children's hospital.

Ashland, which claims the state high school championship, has in its backfield Kennard, who is generally recognized as one of the best backs in the state this season.

K-Dets, University women's drill team, will parade between halves.

ZTA's Honored

Mrs. Edward Warner, Quoque, N. Y., entertained with a luncheon Saturday in the Thoroughbred room of the Phoenix hotel in honor of Alpha Chi chapter of Zeta Tau Alpha sorority.

Co. C Wrestlers Make Challenge

The wrestling team of Company C challenges any other team on the campus to a match. Intercollegiate or interscholastic rules will be followed.

Arrangements can be made by contacting Pfc. J. L. Whitbeck, Patterson hall, PO Box 1543.

Ten Former UK Students Are Now Serving In WAC

Included in the list of Wacs with college training are ten former University students. They are Marcia Randall, Jean Overstreet, Lee Overstreet, Frances House, Vivian Burke, Helen Horlacher, Martha Riley, Mary Leech, Lucille Britton, and Mary F. Wilson.

College women are eligible for commissions in personnel, public relations, and other responsible, administrative offices requiring education beyond the high school level.

Hockey Team Plays Centre

WAA's Glamour Cats will try to score their second win over the Centre college hockey team at 2:30 p.m. tomorrow on the field behind Patterson hall. The UK team defeated the Centre group, 6-1, when they played in Danville two weeks ago.

University team members who will participate in the match are Lucille Clarke, Betty Fleishman, Jane Oldham, Pat Shely, Hazel Kennedy, Elizabeth Faulkner, Zell Goldenberg, Jeanne Bureau, Anne Hayhurst, Jean Crabb, Mary Jane Dorsey, Garnett Gayle, Helen Davis, Marjorie Palmore, Sally Lindberg, and Alice Freeman.

For several years, the Glamour Cats have scheduled matches with Transylvania, Georgetown, University of Louisville, Ursuline, and Centre. The team tied the University of Louisville and defeated Ursuline to win the state hockey match at Louisville last year.
